AML Transaction Monitoring Policy

Document ID: CO-005 | Owner: Compliance | Effective date: 2025-11-01 | Version 1.0

This internal policy describes how transactions are monitored for suspected money laundering. All thresholds are fictional and used for training only.

1. Monitoring Rules

The monitoring system generates alerts based on the following rules.

Rule	Trigger
Large cash transaction	A single cash deposit or withdrawal of EGP 250,000 or more in one day
Structuring	Several cash deposits each below EGP 250,000 totalling more than EGP 400,000 within 3 consecutive days
Rapid movement	More than 80% of funds received are moved out within 48 hours
High-risk geography	Any transfer to or from a jurisdiction on the bank's high-risk list

2. Alert Handling

A Level 1 analyst must review each alert within 2 business days. Alerts that cannot be cleared are escalated to the Money Laundering Reporting Officer (MLRO).

The MLRO decides whether a Suspicious Transaction Report (STR) is required. If so, the STR must be filed with the national Financial Intelligence Unit within 24 hours of the MLRO's decision.

3. Tipping Off

Employees must never inform a customer or any third party that an alert has been raised or that an STR has been filed. Doing so is a disciplinary offence and may be a criminal offence.

4. Record Retention and Training

Transaction records, KYC files, and alert investigation records must be kept for 5 years after the end of the relationship or the date of the transaction, whichever is later.

All staff must complete AML training every year. Staff in customer-facing and compliance roles must also complete role-specific training.
